Also, this nifty message thing . . . so i can leave notes. In this case pointing out the analytics here, and that i changed the dashboard to include only analytics and this note thing. i.e., useful things primarily.

Analytics wise, i'm testing this out, looks like it's working well. It doesn't count us when we're logged in, or any page we're on here on the back-end, but will count any visit we make to a live page.

I suspect this isn't a huge problem, but I could get our ISP IP addresses to filter, possibly, but probably neither of us have static IPs . . . so it could be a bit tricky. Let's see if it seems to be really causing a problem.
